A quarterly recap of THE TALES OF BUN E. BONIFACE™

"Your child's first step in French...through story, art, and song!"

Bun E. Boniface, Santa's Helper

Most everyone needs help as the holidays near, and Santa is certainly no exception....

Being of especially good cheer this year, Bun E. was eager to volunteer. Wearing his red velvet hat with the soft, furry trim seemed ever so fun and delightful to him!

The bell at the tip of his hat gave a jingle as he hopped to and fro in the aid of Kris Kringle.

The brown woolen bag (just a teeny bit heavy) was suitably large for a collection (or bevy) of toys for the children (and carrots for him?).. so please, Santa, hurry and come back again!

G is for Giving

One of the true joys of this project is the opportunity to "share the love."

That's the phrase 12-year old artist Alyssa Wildridge used as she agreed to let Bun E. join her aunt, author Cynthia Wildridge, for school visits, as well as for the taping of Bun E.'s first television interview. Although school and extracurricular activities sometimes prevent Alyssa from joining us for Bun E.'s events, she still wants other children to be able to meet him.

We are thrilled and inspired anew by the chance we've been given to have a positive impact on young lives, instilling a love for language and learning through THE TALES OF BUN E. BONIFACE™. We hope the enthusiasm shared through Bun E.'s adventures will bring joy and delight to their early experience.

We are grateful to those who invited us for book signings and readings; to those retail stores willing to take a chance on a new venture; and to the museum shops honoring us with inclusion.

Merci de tout cœur to family and friends whose contributions to the first book and CD were truly a gift. (We're working on the next one!)

Merci beaucoup to all of you— friends, family, and new fans of Bun E.!

Merry Christmas
